pany of STATIONERS. 1655.

Authors differ much about the Suns entrance into the Equinoctial and Tropical Signs; but the best is, here is a sign of long Ascensions rising, which something mends the matter this year.

I shall proceed to Judgment; and having viewed the Scheam, and observed its connections with configurations precedent and incedent, it makes me in the first place think of the Clergy, this year signified both generally and particularly by Jupiter, who hath called the Sun to him for protection, ('tis true he is able;) next he hath perswaded Venus and Mercury,

A 3.

but

but alas they are as unable as unwilling: Hark you gentle Clergy, do you think to set up your selves by the means you were clipt short by? No, poor Jupiter had his bane in that place a dozen years since, the wound hath been ill healed; it may be so that you get a plaister for a time, but it breaks out again, unless you be inwardly leached: And do you think to set y<sup>e</sup> ur selves there again from whence you were pulled.

Now I hope we may without offence speak a word or two of the tenth House, viz. Magistracy.

I hope the Magistracy will not be handkd by Jupiter; the Commonalty I am confident will not if they can help it: Here's great hopes that the Nobles may have some time to do and suffer some good to be done to the Commons; I with the Commons may have patience yet a while; Mars beholds the tenth House with a Trine Aspect, signifying that at this time the Souldiery will maintain their Superiors so long as there's any hopes of good; but as he hath lately been in quadrate to the Sun Lord of the Ascendant and general Significator of Rulers, so it may intimate that he hath lately displeased the Commons, thwarted Authority, and yet done himself no good, being in such a sign, that he is capable of receiving none, he is so hasty and angry and quarrelsome: But good counsel shortly will do the Souldier no harm, which is intimated by the Trine of Saturn with Mars coincident, which will much compose and allay the heat of his brain, and so much the more, because Saturn hath got him in his own House. But may it not be a little grieved at, what may be the reason reason of this, the Souldiers replying, Truly I doubt our Estates will not agree or condescend or make Peace with some that the Souldiery would, and that's fit we should.

The Sun so near, and that still applying to the body of Jupiter Lord of the fifth House, must do us much good towards a conclusion of Peace with some Nations by Embassies; but he's Lord of the Eighth too, that Cake will be dough, and we shall see our Enemies stand this Year, so that you will hardly tell whether they will sneeze or traff first. Next Saturn and Mercury look wisely one on the other, the one Lord of the Second, the other of the Seventh, posited in the Second; we shall not therefore always be cheated by sneaking pretences of Forreigners, but may and shall in time string our own Bow with their gnts. But as for Mars, I think this year hardly any body will please him, viz. the Souldiery, for he presently quarrels with Jupiter from his Exaltation, having got Jupiter into his own mansion, viz. Aries, and truly I think before thence he can make escape Mars will teach him to know his Keeper.

Much more might be said both ways of the tenth House, but it is no safe climbing too high; we shall therefore descend to the Commons, who are this year signified by the sign Leo, ascending by the Sun Lord thereof in his Exaltation, and both fortunes in Conjunction with him; this speaks excellent English (and by the Moon their general Significator) were not Mars in Square to him, and the Dragons Tail on the Horoscope, which plainly says they will never be beaten into better manners than they have.

The Moon separates from a Conjunction of Saturn, and applying to the Square of Mars says, they are kept out of the frying-pan into the fire; and whereas they have formerly disliked their harsh commanding Superiors, so will they be no ways contented with those present: and as Mars hath dominion in the fourth House, and he in a fiery sign, it shews that the temperament of the season will not so well like them as they could wish; and that old fellow Saturn in their Second tells them, that the times of disbursement are not gone, nor the times of gathering come: few Riches are like to be heaped up; not many incomes, but what Saturn, Lord of the Seventh, our Enemies Significator, will force out again to the maintenance of the Souldery: and further to aggravate the Farmers misery, the year is like to be barren, though many configurations promise much fleet and rain, but it's like to come unseasonable: No very thriving year for any thing; little goes well; no mitigation of any thing to purpose to help, unless the Law receive a gentle touch: And because the year 1653. I received thanks from many younger Students for my Directions in relation to the Diseases then ruling, I shall not now be sparing to deliver my Judgment a little for the publique good, what Diseases are like to reign, and what may be applicable for them that shall be afflicted with them. And to begin with that, we must look to the sixth House, the Lord thereof, and Planets in configuration of him, for the Diseases; to the seventh House for the success of the Physician, to the Tenth for the medicinal helps: And herein Saturn being Lord of the the Sixth, the Sign Capricorn on the Cusp thereof with the Moon, whose detriment is there in Conjunction with Saturn, both posited in Virgo, tells me, that there will be such a disease in the guts as will puzzle the Colledg of Physicians of London to cure, or to know the cause, it may be their old plague of the guts; besides spleenitick passions of all sorts, both hardness and opilations, stoppings, and fluxes thereof, with most cruel pains and torments, in so much that of the beginning of a Cronick Infirmity, the end may be very acute. Besides, I will tell you, and you shall find it as true as the Sun is up at noon day, that women, but especially women of a middle age, or something more, will be as extreemly upon every slight occasion subject to suppression of their Menses, as ever they were in any year this long time, as also young women will be subject to abortions, and hard labour; besides, madness will possess mens brains, so that you will hardly tell what to make of it, whether it will prove a Frenzy or Hypocondriacal Wind, the Dragons Tail in the Ascendant will make your Patients obstinate, refractory, and be Authors of their own destruction first, and of your disparagement afterwards.

Well now, let us go and view the seventh House, and see the Physician, in whom lies much verue towards the cure: if a good conceit and a strong hope can be had of him, the Caput Dragonis in his Ascendant, viz. the seventh House, he may perswade much; but as he is Lord of the Sixth, so he may, if he have not the greater care, as well increase as decrease the humour peccant, by his variety of Medicaments, further confirmed by the existence of so many Planets in the Tenth, or rather in the sign of the Tenth; but in truth the Sun going in Conjunction with Jupiter, yet Lord of the Eighth, will bring many to their graves in despite of the Physician, though Saturn make his Antiscion in the Sign of the Tenth: To conclude as to the Physician, I say, that generally this year the general Significator of Physicians, viz. Mars, as also his particular amicable Aspects on the Sign ascending, culminating, and of the Seventh, shews the martial Physician, be he who he will, shall have the best success in Curation. Now pray blame not my nicety if I describe you your Physician like to do my Countrymen good, it is for the publique good, and not my own I do it; The martial man of either a red or dark brown hair hath most configurations of his part; I would not have you meddle with the Jovialist, the man signified by Venus may do well, but of all others Saturn the best mixed with Mars.

Now to the Medicinal part, and therein I shall not direct you many tedious Compositions, neither shall willingly make any man know more then he can make use of, Astrologians being the men that are fit for it, and none else: So, well, to proceed; For this years diseases of the Head, I commend Misseltow, used according to discretion, being a plant of the Sun in Aries: For the spleenitick passions take sullen Saturns own advice, of a plaister of AMMONIACUM CUM CICUTI, externally, but internally please him with Curcume, viz. TURMERICK: For the suppression of the Menses, I would not have you meddle with Gallen, though you may prevail prevail in that case, but it would be Tinker-like, to mend one hole, and make two; therefore fly to the renowned Parracelsus, and take some of his Essences of Minerals, if you know to make them proper to the purpose, else apply your self to my house, where you shall have them prepared and administred by my friend Dr Harrington.

But to conclude then with this Quarter, It's like to be very sickly, and the middle of the Month of May will end many of the diseases incident thereto in the grave, and we shall next see what may be hoped for in the next Quarter, seeing the Angles of this Schem are part fixed and part moveable.

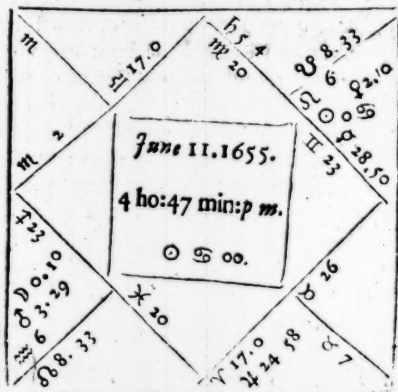

But not forgetting to have a word or two of some other Nations, with which our Nation may this year deal withall, we shall be a little larger; and seeing the Moon is the general Significator of the Commons, lately gone from the Conjunction of Saturn, particular and general Significator of their Enemies, it intimates as much as if they had not cared to have joyned with their own natural Enemies, as I may say, against themselves, on condition they might have had a Melioration of the present burthens, which thing they lie under, by reason of men entrusted by them: all this will not do, but they square both with Souldiery and Authority, and that subtilly, while they have Agents their well-willers amongst the Superiors; it's possible, by reason of the Suns Conjunction with Jupiter in the House of Journeys, that this year, or near it, our Nation may make a Colony, and transplant many to some fortunate happy place; if they do, I may absolutely call it fortunate, for there is no less then two fortunes to make it so to English men, for the Sign in general is  $\gamma$ , and happy may that Martial, Jovial, Venerial Man be that undertakes it & makes a Conduct; this I say is probable.

We shall not this year be very pleasing to France, but shall most shrewdly thwart them in some of their greatest designs, which nevertheless will benefit us little: we shall (I mean our Navy) have much to do with some Islands, and men whom formerly we were not acquainted with, and it is probable will be never a whit glad of our company: some discoveries we shall make more then formerly, and increase our own Dominions; much Sea-faring from our Nation to others, and many hopeful Returns.

Now to the Summer Quarter, wherein will be expected what we shall say principally to the weather and season, we having had such harsh dry times, wherein let us view the Suns Entrance into Cancer.

Where we find Mars stationary to Retrogradation, Lord of the Ascendant, dispossiter of Jupiter, the Sign Horoscoping at the Vernal Equinox: now at this Tropical Ingress, being divolved to the ninth place, which Jupiter ruled before, assuredly many of the Clergy will be highly accused and slandered with matters of truth, for Canda is there; and as for Venus, she will even prove a prick in their sides, and tells them, they must not now seek to be established, but regulated by Magistracy: the Angles are partly watry, partly earthy: We shall have many sultry winds, and some showres, blown up betwixt Mars and the Moon, but they unseasonable: Saturn in this Schem, as also in that of the Revolution, opposes the Sign of the last Conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter, now partly Lords of the Second and Third, in so much that the Farmer will be no great gainer.

Authority may now think to vaump and trim up an old fashion of Gubernation, but that the Moon, with the Dragons Tail in Conjunction with Mars and Opposition of Venus, will cause some debility, many untoward diseases, many surfeits, many preternatural eruptions and heats both in the Macrocosm and Microcosm; she is in opposition to Mars: people will be causes of their own diseases, and those diseases will be hardly enough cured, though the Patient consent hand and hears; yet will not diseases of this Quarter be so deadly as of the Spring, if no Epidemical Disease take place, which it's much to be feared it will; though Venus be in Leo, yet there is Cauda too; Fluxes will kill many, and that plague of the guts is yet further confirmed to proceed and to be aggravated with extream windiness and corruption of blood: womens travels may not be so sore as in many years and times past it hath been, but many are threatened with sore lingering sickness after deliverance, occasioned by the general state of the Quarter, viz. corruption of blood.

I heartily wish our Magistrates may do well: if former configurations be observed, there's great fear of unusual apparitions, the latter end of this Quarter, and beginning of the next, at what time Saturn comes combust, and the Fortunes opposing one the other very cunningly; if the wind blow not from the East, it's marvel: the Tutilar Angels send Premonitions to be observed from such as are signified by the tenth House, and if they take no notice, then who should give it them? unseasonable, unwholesome winds, little rain, and that rather obnoxious then causing fruitfulness to the Farmer.

*Causing joy at first, but after maketh sad,
First falling to a Frenzy, and then stark mad.*

The French Gout and other such like infirmities very rife, and so we leave the Quarter, and approach to see what Harvest may be got, and how Tythes may be payd.

The principal Rulers of this Quarter are Mercury in Conjunction with Saturn and the Moon in her own House: Mercury likewise was strongest in the Summer Quarter: the Sign wherein he is now posited is Earthly, the other was Airy, it is in Opposition to the Sign of the great Conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter last, 1643. And if you remember in the Spring Quarter the Moon was in Conjunction with Saturn in the Revolution in the same Sign: If I should say and infer from hence, that in some of the Southern and South-west parts, were like to be Earthquakes, I should fright the City wives as much as the Solar Eclipse did, 1652. therefore I only say it's probable the Earth will have an Ague this Autumnal Quarter, and that we shall behold many dreadful Apparitions.

Apparitions in the Clouds, which I wish all Artists to observe both in their manners and times of appearance exactly, for from thence may be gathered a secondary conjecture of some more particular Nice-ties, then from the causes of those appearances themselves: The Sun, which in the Revolution was pretty well, is now ill, yet doth good, (where he is particularly, being holpen by Mars, viz. the Souldiery,) whether willingly or unwillingly; I care not however, here's much ado, great promises and small performances; and this business called the Clergy I think will perpetually obstruct our better hopes and succeedings, for once more here's honorable dealings with them; but that's not the thing will serve their turns, they must be aut Caesar aut nihil, which latter part comes on the stage shortly to be fulfilled, as to present modes; but people will still worship those Idols, and think their God Tythes to be Jure Divino, and for that I'll warrant them for ever being perswaded to the contrary by the Clergy: No very plentiful crop of Corn, nor that very good there is, but infested by Worms and vermin; it's probable 'twill rain, but unseasonably, and when the fruits of the Earth are not capable of being benefited by it, but of being made worse by it, it now being the season to take it in. The Commonality may be merry, but small cause for it, for it will not last long; for when they think Authority will alter something that may prove beneficial, lo it is but an establishing of what they count obnoxious: Cauda Draconis in the Medium Celi (although Luna be in the Sign strong, viz. her own House) will much distract our

Grandees,

Grandees, and make them with an ill will to bear many aspersions layd upon their honours, neither will they agree well among themselves, in so much that if it were lawfu', I know what I could say.

*Then let Coelestials joy and sing their fill,
'Cause wa on Earth 'gin to perform that will
Which was impos'd on them by the most High,
For to give notice that his Majesty
Will pluck down mighty men and Cedars tall,
And place such there, as do not fear to fall,
Because with low estate they'r well content,
And cannot come to worse then whēce they went.*

The GREAT WORK is at hand, but it is not this year ripe: here's hopeful Agents abroad and at home to make us all happy, if we have but patience; here's a gallant Being, yet scarce visible, no perfection yet; but seed being sown, we have great hopes of gains, when it is well watered with the fruitful rains. One thing worth consideration in respect of the Clergy, is this, that Jupiter their general Significator is disposed of by Mars, Mars being in his own Exaltation strong, though he be departing it, yet 'tis pity he should; Mercury Lord of the Ninth, their particular Significator, in Conjunction with Saturn Lord of their Eighth, makes me to think they are almost dead with grief to see how many of them are fitted; but it was never the Souldiers happiness to begin and conclude this matter yet, nor now will we, by reason of the flattery of such as are signified by the Sun: but amongst all this still I cannot but hope the Commonalty, signified by Venus, are better satisfied then formerly, by reason of the Sextile of Mercury and Venus. Violent Feavers with putrefaction are like to be as rife as in 1653. by reason of the Square of Mars and Iupiter: Cauda Draconis in Leo in the tenth House makes me think there will be many sudden and unexpected deaths befall many; many violent eruptions of noysome poysonous vapors and exhalations upon the heart; truly I wish it be not a Pestilence, and that to come and proceed so suddenly and occurrly, that no man can think himself safe at any time, neither know when nor how to take any Medicine to resist it, as likewise other diseases; for Luna, though Lady of the Medium Caeli, and in Cancer, yet is obstructed by the Squares both of Mercury and Saturn, so that Physick will not take that effect that is wished for.

But Mercury Lord of the Ninth in Sextile to Venus, Lady of the Ascendant, tells every rational man that hath judgment in Astrology, that another way more occult to disservice with there is; whereby to communicate virtue, from Vagabonds, Animals, Minerals, to help the diseases incident to this Quarter, there be Sigils, Lamens, Aligations and Suspensions, &c. But no more of that, only I tell them to younger Students, that thereby they may help themselves and others.

Now a word, and but a word, of the Hy-mall Quarter, which is not like to be seasonable: as is wished for, by reason of unusual gusts of winds, and at other times cold, snowy, & boy, wet weather; little snow lying long, or of any continuance of time on the ground, whereby little fertility can be produced on the Earth: great winds and storms are like to afflict us about Christmas both by Sea and Land; besides either the worst or best of all I cannot tell, which is an Opposition of Saturn and Mars from the Houses of Jupiter and Mercury, they are both in their Triplicities, the Ascendant is the same with the Scheme of both Revolutions of the World, and of this Quarter, therefore here is like to be no mean actions in hand: consideration had what a famous Eclipse was celebrated in this sign Leo, August 2.

1654. The Opposition is from the third and ninth, as if the Clergy were a business much lookt upon, saving that neither of the signs of the Opposition have any affinity with the sign Leo; therefore perhaps the Commonalty will look upon them over the left shoulder: The Moon is disposed on by Mars, and she is busie in Conjunction with Venus; a fine business: most dangerous shipwracks are like to be as ever was heard of, much theiving and Piracy, many ships like to suffer by fire as well as by water: To conclude, a most horrid Sea-sick season it is like to prove, and by consequence not very well by Land. The Kingdom of France is like to suffer extream afflictions and loss both by Sea and Land, not only by her Civil Wars, but by strangers, otherwise called the Neighbors, viz. by this Opposition of Saturn and Mars; and it is now in Heaven decreed, That whosoever strives to set up Prerogative Power (under the title of Liberty of the Subject, or what other consequence soever) though of what nature or degree he or it be, it must down: And so I conclude this Winter Quarter, and come to speak a word or two of Eclipses.

Wherefore this year 1655. there will be two, the one visible to us in England, but small; the other not visible, both of the Sun.

The Eclipse visible happens January 26. at half an hour past one in the afternoon, the Ascendant whereof is Cancer, the Moon Lady thereof, hiding some part of the light of the Sun from us, who is in the ninth House, the House of the Clergy &c. as if we had nothing else in the world to do but mind opinions about Religion, and such Ideots as would make us to beleve so : This Eclipse may incite (together with other configurations this year) the Commonall to do much, yea so much in some things I fear they will over-do, a thing which they have not done a great while.

Many things may be said, much might be alledged in defence of some, much pleaded against others, but that I must act in my own sphere, as I desire others should. Here is an admirable Harmony all this Year, though of Celestial Configurations, all it living to put forward the degrees of former great Conjunctions and Aspects : But because the same which are this year do likewise fall out in other years ; yet actions are not the same ; the reason is, that there can be no melody nor harmony made till all parts and tones be played cabaly, and the Cabal of Astrology may much instruct us : I am perswaded you shall hear shrewd harping in 1656.

When wisely he and they that wisely understand
Takes part with thee and me, wisely to play the game
That Heaven hath decreed, on Earth to play with speed
Whē ancient sage reports prove true in terrene Courts
When Commonwealths achieves to act without (the leaves

Of such as would enslave ; others in bondage have,
And tye men to a faith, when as themselves none hath :
My Muse may be transported, but it's far too weak
To compais such productions as ensue ;
I'll shun the Rock, lest I procure a leak :
True English hearts, I bid you all ADIEU ;
For I must go !

Of the Faces of the Signs.

These things I thought good here to insert this year, as in some formerly, because I account them necessary in Astrological Judgments, and also have found them verified in the Nativities of many people.

THAT the faces of the Signs have significations is apparent, and that none have as yet written of them in English is as true, therefore here having got a little spare paper I shall fill it up with them; Job. Angelus hath cut convenient Images for them, which although they very fitly express their significations, I shall here omit.

The first face of Aries is the face of Mars, and signifies boldness, fortitude, preferment and immodesty, it is compleat and strong in its properties and virtues. The second face is the face of the Sun, and signifies Nobility and Preferment, Rule and Dominion. The third face is the face of Venus, and signifies Women, and their skill in manual operation and trades belonging to that Sex, courtesies, play, joy and mirth.

The first face of Taurus is Mercuries, and is compleat in his nature, is good to plow, sow and build, to frequent the company of Lawyers, learned and wise Men, to measure and divide Land, to practice Geometry. The second face is belonging to the Moon, and signifies power, nobility and honour, to spoyl Towns, and dispeople them, and bring great necessity upon people. The third face is the face of Saturn, and

and signifies misery, bondage, slavery, necessity, want, and vileness.

The first face of Gemini is Jupiters, and is compleat in its nature, and signifies writing, casting of account, receiving and paying monies, delivering petitions, and exercising such feats of wit by which little money is gotten. The second is the face of Mars, and signifies oppression and labor, obtaining things by much study and difficulty, and if it signify any at all it is knavish wit. The third is the face of the Sun, and signifies forgetfulness, disdain, jesting and playing.

The first face of Cancer is the face of Venus, compleat in its own nature, and signifies strength and sensibility, community, subtilty, and favour of the men they desire. The second is the face of Mercury, and signifies mirth, jesting and playing with women, riches and fruitfulness. The third face belongs to the Moon, and signifies hunting, pursuing of them that fly, and obtaining goods by fighting, quarrelling, and contrarying men in their humors.

The first face of Leo belongs to Saturn, and is compleat in form, signifies cruelty, evil deeds, violence, boldness, lust, and many laborious businesses, which must be born, will he will he. The second face is the face of Jupiter, and signifies brawlings that a man never thought of, misery and necessity, base men get the victory over their betters before they are aware of it, and it gives occasion of fighting and bloodshed. The third is the face of Mars, and signifies love and society, it avoys strife, and men will be loth to part from their own.

The first face of the Virgin belongs to Sol, and is the face of plowing and sowing, planting and gathering riches, pleasing the fancy, and cherishing the body. The second face of Virgo is the face of Venus, and signifies getting gain and substance, a greedy desire after wealth, a covetous disposition, seeking help of other people to advance himself. The third is the face of Mercury, and signifies old age and weakness, slothfulness and infirmity, rooting up trees and unpeopling Countries.

The first face of Libra belongs to the Moon, signifies and Justice, Law, and Truth, it helps the poor, and delivers him out of the clutches of the rich, and is compleat both in figure and nature. The second is the face of Saturn, and signifies rest, plentifulness, quietness, a good peaceable secure life. The third face belongs to Jupiter, and signifies lust, sodomy, evil company, singing and jollity.

The first face of Scorpio is the face of Mars, and is compleat in figure and nature, it signifies wrangling, sickness and deceit, sadness, destruction and way-laying, or private cunny-catching. The second is the face of the Sun, and is a wrangling, quarrelling, scolding, mischief-sowing, seditious, vexatious face. The third belongs to Venus, and signifies violence, drunkenness, war and fornication.

The first face of Sagittarius belongs to Mercury, and gives signification of boldness, liberty and war. The Moon claims the second face, which signifies fear and weeping, lamentation, and bodily sorrow. The third is the face of Saturn, and signifies a man extreme selfish, one that will have his own will though to pull down houses, subtille for himself, and walks contrary to every body, quick witted to every thing that is bad, but in good things he moves as though he drew a millstone at his tayl.

The first face of Capricorn is the face of Jupiter, compleat in figure and nature, and signifies a joyfull life, wandering and travelling, gain and loss, an intermixed life. The second is the face of Mars, and signifies searching after such things as will never be found out, and studying after such things as will never be attained. The third face belongs to the Sun, and makes a man covetous and desirous of rule and sovereignty.

The first face of Aquary is the face of Venus, and signifies continual anxiety after gain, the man is never at rest, but always full of labour and pains-taking, and much ado he hath to keep buckle and thong together. The second is the face of Mercury, and gives beauty, understanding and modesty, a fine courteous disposition, modest, not much given to anger, of good condition, compleat in form, and one that loves liberty. The third face the Moon claims dominion of, and signifies brawling, scolding and quarreling.

The first face of Pisces is the face of Saturn, compleat in figure and nature, is of many thoughts and as many journeys, often shifting from place to place, very diligent to get him a name, and an estate. The second is the face of Jupiter, and is of an aspiring brain, a creature that aims at no small matters. Mars claims the third face, in which he delights much in wenches, fornication, whoredom and pleasure.

And for further satisfaction you may see my Book called called, An Astrological Judgment of Diseases, from the decumbiture of the sick: Also, the manner of finding out the cause, change and end of a Disease, And whether the sick be likely to live or dye, and the time when recovery or death is to be expected: to which is added the signs of Life or Death by the body of the sick party, according to the Judgment of Hypocrates.

The virtues, use, and variety of operation of the true and Philosophical Aurum Potabile, attained by the studies of Dr Freeman and Dr Calpeper, and left with his Widow at her house in Spittle-fields (on the East side) near London, and administered by a Physician there.

THE Virtues are as followeth. It cures all Agues, whether Quotidian, Tertian, or Quartane; as also it cured divers people of that most horrid putrid Fever, which so violently seized on mens bodies (both before and after Michaelmas 1653.) to the great admiration of many; and when the parties diseased have been both senseless and speechless, so that neither that, nor any other medicine or Panacea, though never so gentle, could safely be administered into the body, it hath beyond all hopes, by external application on the stomack revived them: It cures the Gout of all sorts perfectly, being administered as the Physician shall advise: it causeth women subject to abortion, or miscarriage, to go their time, and yet being administered when the time comes, it causeth speedy and easie delivery: it is an infallible cure for the French Pox, and cures all sorts of Jaundise. But to what purpose do we nominate diseases in particular, when 'tis an universal Remedy for all diseases, being administered as the Physician shall give directions? for its chief aim is exhilarating the vital spirits and heart. It both binds and stops Fluxes, yet purges; it both vomits, and stays vomiting; it causes sweat, yet cures preternatural sweatings, and performs all its operations as Nature it self would have it, because it only fortifies her in her Center.

To conclude, it is an universal Fortification for all complexions and ages, against all sorts and degrees of pestilential and contagious Infection, both preventing before their possession, and extirpating of them after it.

I say no more, but refer you to the Treatise of Aurum Potabile, which the Widow hath in her hands ready for the Press, as also between fourscore and an hundred Manuscripts of his own hand writing, as also several Ephemeris's for some years ensuing.

An Explanation of the three ensuing Tables.

The use of the Tables is very easie; For when you know the day of the Month under the Month, over against the day you find the age of the Moon, which being found, look it in the Residue of the Tyde Table on the top, and underneath it over against the place you have the hour and minute when it is full Sea. For example: The first day of January the Moon is 23 days old, which if you search in the residue of the Tyde Table, you shall find that the Moon when she is 3 days old, and when she is 23, maketh full sea at London, 24 min. past 9 of the clock; and this she doth always, if neither Winds nor Land Floods, &c. hinder; for take notice, that it is impossible exactly to shew the time of high water in Rivers of great indrouth, as one may in Sea Towns.

A Table Whereby may be known what Moon makes full Sea, with the hours and minutes thereof, in many of their ensuing or adjoining places.

January hath XXXI Days.

The Planets all in restless motions move,
The old year's gone with blessings from above,
The new comes in adorn'd; the Sword and Gown
Are both agreed, and Virtue wears the Crown.
Then how great hopes have I that we shall see
Our long desired blessed Libertie?

Observations on JANUARY.

Vere it not for the general Fate of the Time yet impending, there was hopes of much good to be acted both by Authority and the publike-meal: Jupiter and Mars in Trine from Pisces and Scorpio, their own Houses, argue Pacification between the Sword and the Gown. It joys Venus so much to see it, that she courts them both with brave words from her own Triplicity, many hopeful Mis-fives, many gentle Agitations, in this Trine of Jupiter and Mars. Mars exactly beholds the place where the Sun was Eclipt, August the second 1654. with a Square Sinister, he himself being now very strong, most of the actions signified by him relate thereunto; yet cannot I expect the full measure by reason this particular is not enough to make up the whole concomitance with the last great Conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter; very sound Counsels are nevertheless agitated, and some particular notable Action, the Seed Plot whereof is layd, will just be ripe by the next Trines of Saturn and Jupiter: the particulars of it being considered, gives us hopes that we may then arrive in some good measure to our long desired Liberty.

February hath XXVIII Days.

Cold, hoary, misty, frosty. snowy weather,
With stirring winds and actions altogether;
Begins the Month; nor is the middle clear,
Which some, and those no mean ones too, may fear.
Boast not of honour, nor of high born blood,
Since to be great is not worth praise, but good.

Observations on FEBRUARY.

Such actions as we mentioned in the former Month, and their Undertakers find not all honey; for Saturn thwarts Mars with a square Sinister from the Sign of the Aphelion of Mars; but the Solidity of Counsel, which Mars receives by the Sextile of Mercury from the House of Saturn will give Mars such Magnanimity of Spirit, that he will fear no body; but here is all thwarted again, Ant Mellis, ant venenum, great ones cannot agree, here's bad taken away, and worse put in the room: Here's virtue punished and vice let go; but the chiefest thing this Month discoursed of will be a questioning of a great Man in Authority: As for the Weather it is like to be very turbulent, windy and snowy, not only on the Land, but also on the Sea, causing much loss to such Merchants as deal West-ward and North-westward; Some Parasite flatters a great Man in Authority, makes him believe wonders, he is now found out, he that hath been author of more mischief then a hundred thousand treacherous Scots put all together: You will know who it is when it comes to pass.

March hath XXXI Days.

This Months tenth day, the Worlds all-seeing Eye,
 Mounted on's Throne, rules in full Majesty.
 Great things are seldom done with ease; sharp words
 Precede, and some perhaps may draw their swords:
 But Truth prevails, and then the Royal Sun
 'Twixt Jove and Venus through the Ram doth run.

Observations on MARCH.

S Torms of Hail begin the Month, but that's not all; for it blows us some unpleasing intelligence out of Scotland, and from the North of England; but the fear is worse then the harm: extraordinary high winds about the six and seven days, bring Hail and Snow, and very sharp weather; but the middle of the Month is more Serene, both to weather and actions and a pretty pleasing Spring towards: its good when great ones agree, if it be in doing good; as here is as fair hopes as hath been this many a day: the Conjunction of Sol and Jupiter in Aries, the Trine of Saturn and Mars Saturn and Jupiter in mutual Antiscion, Mars in his exaltation, the Trine of Saturn and Mercury, and the Trine of Saturn and Venus, all these good Aspects to attend the Revolution, the Sun being Lord thereof, I hope nothing will be ignobly acted: some great man comes to a higher strain of command, I hope he deserves it; however all are not pleased, especially the Gown men of all sorts: the full Moon past Ventional and near incidence says so; the Ascendant whereof is opposite to the ascendant of the Revolution, and now the tail begins to stand where the head did. A most egregious slander befalls some men in Authority about the latter end of the Month; but he which is the cause is in the fault.

April hath XXX Days.

This Months sweet face looks mildly at the first,
 As if bad actions were put to the worst;
 But yet there is dissembling 'mongst some fly
 Pretences to a blessed Liberty:
 But let such fellows know who they deceive,
 'Tis none but themselves, if they'l me beleeve.

Observations on APRIL:

Cold weather begins the Month, and some misty Mornings: many of the Actions of the last Month are not well digested yet; and many of those consultations now reduced unto act, the Trine of Venus in her own House, to Mars in his exaltation, makes much myrth, those Rulers of the tenth and fourth in the Revolution. There's a private bargain concluded, the Lawyer is neer unto a Translation, and to be a little more refined if it please his Worship, Saturn Stationary in Quadrate to Venus, procures many hard labors to those distressed women that have the hard Fate to be neer their expectation at this time: Embassies from several places tending to good at first sight; but prove not so: very pleasant Showers from the middle till the end of the Month, giving the Farmer good hopes of a gallant season of the fruits of the Earth; but that I fear the morning Frost will mar what the other makes.

May hath XXXI Days.

This Month looks merrily just as it should,
That we could act no less, I'le wish we could;
But fair pretences will no Partrips butter,
We're forc'd to leave the good, the worst to flatter,
And of bad Markets for to make the best,
Leave Sol and Saturn to rake all the rest.

THis Month begins with store of lying Pamphlets, such ribaldry flies frequent abroad, many of the offenders may very probably be caught, and punished: our Soldiers in Ireland are secure, and in spite of all the Tories we shall there seat our selves and regain again whatever hath been by treachery lost: our Soldiers there shall find many acts of grace, beware London, Beware Paris, strange actions all on a sudden; now we know they are no friends that have so long been foes: some Comitty men called in question, I wish the Lord Major whosoever he be, in this Month, to be very cautious, for fear he procure some Superior, and indamage his charge, Paris is in ill case, and generally France cries help friends when she hath none: those at the Stern, and those in the Hold cannot see one the other, its pitty that the curtain is not drawn that men in Authority might see what it is they have to do; but the latter end of the Month better informs us, and of what broils we have had in London of late, may procure some Reconciliation, and some severely punished for our ragious, A Mervralist leaves Ireland and betakes himself to England, its no goodness he comes for; but let him, when Theeves quarrel honest men come by their goods again.

June hath XXX Days.

The actions which this Month doth bring to light
 Who ever loves the truth will much delight,
 To see false fellows whipt, and stript, and drest,
 And all their feathers taken from their nest,
 Which they unjustly hoarded up together,
 As if the Wind would ne'r have moved Weather.

Observations on JUNE.

AT the beginning of the Month, we might expect some gracious Act or Ordinance to benefit the Commonalty and City of London; but any thing which is good is soon out voted, but be content it will come, many distracted mad people caused by most violent Feavers to some, and by Love melancholy, and love brain sick fancies to others: Let Oxford beware of fire of all sorts about the thirteenth day of this Month, good and pleasing intelligence out of Scotland, the Scots King is much talked of about this time, the one is too long, the other is too short, Tradesmen fall out amongst themselves, Alas Scholars strange disputes and strange fashions upon strange subjects, and all to maintain a worm-eaten opinion which would sayn be Translated to Religion: many Piracies, much Shipwrack, London beware thy Merchants, loss comes unlooked for, the Feavers of the beginning of the Month turn to Dropsies: Oxford beware of water of all sorts about the latter end of the Month.

July hath XXXI Days.

Venus courts Jove with a most friendly Trine,
 'Tis but to pump the Fellow that's divine;
 For afterwards she makes it well appear,
 She did but whisper him to hire his ear;
 It's well there's such abroad that can tell how
 To cheat such men as nothing else can do.

Observations on JULY.

THe Common-wealth stands in a gallant posture, and looks as if it were ready to be ingaged. I fear that Holland will go neer to provoke us, nay I am verily perswaded we shall either give them occasion, or they us, and then Holland if thou comest upon the Stage now, or neer this time or a little after, no flattering will serve thy turn: all goes not well in Scotland; we can never agree amongst our selves, nor any body with us long. I fear we stand too much upon Punctilios, and now the swordman fully resolves to make use of, of what is his own in despite of all the Gownds in the world, though Venus in the ninth in the Tropical Ingress have got Saturn in conjunction with her who was then in the ninth but Sign of the tenth: A most extraordinary sickly time, I fear the Pestilence breedeth both North and South: look to it Oxford; the wind is something aloft, the Clergy would fain salve up all subtilty, but no butter will stick long on their bread, their behaviour and misbehaviour is the cause, a Trine of Mars and Venus most gallant Courtship it is that ends the Month.

September hath XXX Days.

Heavens Vicegerent in the equal Scale
Of Justice, telleth us a merry tale,
But lasts not long, such things are soon prevented,
And worse matters in their places entered.
O Heaven! shall we never ought else know,
But that the weakest to the wall must go?

Observations on SEPTEMBER.

THe Farmer may find a better season to bring in his Crop then could be expected the last Month by far; the Square of Jupiter and Mars this Month from the Angle of the tenth, and Sign of the sixth of the yearly Revolution, makes a sickly undertaking or a cross thwarting of some great men: with some Clergymen, the Trine of Sol and Mars, Sextile of Venus and Saturn, Sextile of Venus and Mercury, make pretty good musick, were it not for one thing, were not old Saturn a little too nigh with some gall; for if Tithes were not before rectified, they are now called in question, and very like to be turned out of doors: sudden news from France that will make us believe wonders, its Tantum Quantum, we shall give an ear to our enemies when we have got it from our friends: we are a little threatened this Month; I perswade my self that the rash actions of some or one in Authority, man or men, will produce in process of time, the greatest Catastrophe that ever England beheld.

October hath XXXI Days.

The Clergy now once more put to their trumps,
 Their Priviledges beg upon their Rump's;
 But alas in vain; Heaven hath long since decreed
 Such Bryers and Brambles from its plot to weed;
 But let them know their black Coats will not serve,
 To keep from Summers Sun, & the Winters Rerve.

Observations on OCTOBER.

Cold weather begins the Month, and extraordinary great winds succeed presently after, A Rumor of news and new things that pleases nobody, and they which sit at the Stern of affairs to oversee us are overseen, to overlook us are overlooked: the Commonwealth begin to smell what the matter is that so much is promised and so little or almost nothing at all is performed; but Fortuna favet fatuos, he escapes too well that is the causer thereof, for which we of the Commonalty begin to grin and shew our teeth, we shall shortly bite if we be not muzzled; for its just as it were; great cunning and daubing; but amongst al the rest I commend one witty Souldier (that hath formerly been obscured partly by his will, and partly against it) for speaking his mind, let him speak and fear nothing, there is a Protector at his elbow, a Souldier at his back, and one with a pitch-fork not far behind; I hope his apponents will take grand deliberation upon so grand a business as is now in question, else we shall all rue for it.

November hath XXX Days.

I fear some scuffling amongst Superiours, then
What will befall to we inferior men ?

'Tis an ill wind doth no man profit blow,
Th'old Proverb formerly have fixt it so ;

Nay whilst two Dogs may strive a bone to get,
A third puts in, and both of them may cheat.

Observations on NOVEMBER.]

THe Sextile of Sol and Saturn, speak pretty cunny, catching, and we begin to know our friends; but fear we shall never know any end of Taxes, and contribution: the Clergy and Common people are something better agreed then formerly, there is need of it; but if they do not agree now, they will never, till one of them be called aside: If there be a bargain, its well the souldery cannot agree with somebody, which causes weather both wet and dry, all is well that ends well: there is that now acting in private that a short time I verily beleeve the next Month will produce to publique view; the Sun will give light though cloudy obscure Saturn drive to hoodwink him with his bonnet upon a sudden; a murmuring, a discontent and repining seizes upon all men in general, because nothing is well.

From the Turpean Steeple top the Crow
Cries out, all is not well; but 'twill I throw.

Change of weather about the latter end of the Month, from bad to worse, just like the actions of them that never knew what a good word was.

The Year's now gone, we look for Winter weather,
 We shall not fail, it all comes in together; (det
 Rain, Frost, Hail, Snow; perhaps a Summers Won-
 Some part of England hear by Winters Thunder:
 New things peep in, and old ones are cast down,

Observations on DECEMBER.

T His Month is wholly imployed in Deliberations and Councils, pleadings and questions, pro and con, for some and against others, and in the conclusion there is a Hive of Bees to be smothered: Julius Caesar never knew such achievements as are now undertaken to prejudice one great man or some men that had thought this world would have lasted always, but Bear-garden being down we must run our dogs some where else: some great ones are questioned that have been formerly brought upon the Stage; but some may better steal a Horse then others look on: I have a great opinion and some reason I have for it both by Cabal and Astrology, and I could wish wheresoever this should be read that notice may be taken, viz that there will be Thunder in some, perhaps many places of England in this Month or near it. Look to it Holland, beware of Inundations and worse matters, the States and Prince agree but ill, give us no occasion, if you do we shall pay you in a coyn that shall pass with you, though unwillingly: nothing but tumults in France; hot actions but weather cold: the Assendant of the Opposition of Saturn and Mars, its the same of that of the Revolution of the world; so that what hath been in this year in posse, arrives to esse fiat,

There is extant a compendious Hebrew Grammar and Dictionary, with so many places of the Hebrew Text resolved in English (by way of Praxis,) with such plain and easie Directions for teaching Beginners the readiest way of Learning, that any of ordinary capacity may learn to read, and understand the Hebrew Bible by their own industry, without any other Teacher, then the Book it self. Published by William Robertson, A.M. To be sold by H. Robinson, at the three Pigeons in Pauls Church-yard, and G. Sawbridge at the Bible on Ludgate-hill. Also,

A learned Discourse of Government and Obedience, as they stand directed and determined by Scripture and Reason, in four Books, by Mr John Hall of Richmond.

There is lately extant an Exposition on the ninth Chapter of St. Paul to the Romans, wherein the great Doctrine of Personal Election and Reprobation from Eternity is learnedly and largely discussed, by M. Goodwin; sold by H. Cripps and L. Loyd in Popes-head Alley.

And further, let the Reader take notice, That the industrious and judicious Author, knowing the shortness of his life, and that his time of dissolution was at hand, and also how well this Ephemeris hath been for some years past accepted of by all men, hath left in his Study the like Copies, with Astrological Predictions, and Monthly Observations, with other interveehing Occurrences Celestial and Terrestrial, for some years to come, which at their appointed seasons will be made publique,

From his house in Spittle-fields, next door to the Red Lyon.
